Board names Haas, announces eight goals

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has started its new administration by selecting an interim Beat Four Supervisor and announcing eight major objectives for the county.

Omer Haas of Kiln was named Beat Four supervisor by unanimous vote of the board Monday.

He succeeds Sam Pernicaro, who was reelected to a fourth term in an easy first primary victory but resigned, effective Monday, as part of a plea-bargaining arrangement which included a guilty plea to repairs done at the county's central maintenance barn in Kiln;

—Developing, in conjunction with the county fire marshal's office, a system of fire protection that would provide rural residents with relief from what the board called "exorbitant" fire insurance premiums;

—Establishing a full-time recreational department responsible for the establishment and maintenance of local recreation facilities throughout Hancock County;

—Developing a uniform personnel policy for all county employees which will include classification and grade structure;

—Building a county government facility to house such agencies as the county welfare department and health department as well as other departments in need of additional space; and

—Studying the possibility of a county purchasing department which would consolidate purchasing and possibly become the most cost-effective manner of procurement.

The board members got an immediate start on some of the work when they handed out assignments charges leveled against him through the Federal Bureau of Investigation's "Operation Pretense" which has been looking into corrupt purchasing practices among Mississippi supervisors.

Haas, a native of Hancock County and a Mississippi State University graduate who has been a forestry consultant for more than 30 years, does not officially become a supervisor until he is sworn in by the circuit clerk or a judge.

He must also receive a commission from the governor.

He was appointed on the contingency that he would serve about 10 months of Pernicaro's term but would not run for the office in a special election in November, said Beat Two Supervisor Ronald Cuevas, who was unanimously elected board president by the other three supervisors.

Hancock County Election Commissioner Charles Gottschalk said that Haas would not serve a full year because whoever wins the special election can be sworn in as soon as his bond is ready.

He said it is not necessary to wait for the commission, although it is considered an acceptable procedure.

"Because Mr. Haas has a business background and is a lifelong resident of Hancock County, we feel he would be very effective as supervisor for this district," according to Ronald Cuevas.

The eight objectives the board members have agreed to pursue during the next four years are "things we can accomplish," Cuevas said.

He added, "We feel this can be done with no additional taxes. We are unanimously opposed to any increase in taxes. All of us feel that we are already a tax burden to the hilt."

Those objectives include: —Reactivating the Sand Beach Technical Advisory Council and beginning an annual and systematic development of the beach and roadway;

—Beginning a program to identify all dirt roads in the county and study the possibility of blacktopping them in order to reduce annual overall maintenance requirements;

—Further expanding the unit system by directing all county departments to have scheduled and non-scheduled maintenance and

Hancock farmer marks 100th year tomorrow

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

George Vairin, a long, long-time resident of Hancock County, will be 100-years-old Friday.

Vairin may be remembered mostly as the gentleman farmer who sold vegetables and garden seedlings.

Although born Jan. 8, 1888 in New Orleans, Vairin's family moved to Hancock County when he was a baby.

Except for a few years in the 1920's, Vairin has lived his entire life in Hancock County.

"I feel good about having lived long enough to have my 100th birthday," he said.

Vairin says he doesn't know why he lived to be 100 years old.

"But I never drank or smoked, I went to bed early and hardly ever ran around with women," he said.

Vairin said doctors told him more than 50 years ago he was supposed to die following some surgery.

"I fooled them, they're dead and I'm still alive," Vairin said with a chuckle.

Although a farmer most of his life, Vairin worked for four years as a deputy for the Hancock County Sheriff's Office when his father, J. W. Vairin was sheriff.

"I was my daddy's main deputy because he had never learned how to drive and I had to drive him around," Vairin said.

Being a deputy was a "mean" job because of all the tough characters, he said.

Vairin says one of the main problems he faced while serving as deputy sheriff was trying to enforce prohibition.

"The only way you could come into town with whiskey and not get arrested was if it was in your stomach," he said.

During the few years Vairin lived away from Hancock County, he worked as a railroad detective in New Orleans.

"Being a railroad detective was a mean job but I didn't worry about mean jobs in those days," he said.

As railroad detective, Vairin was in charge of protecting railroad property and checking the cars in the station.

He recalls several times catching robbers at work in the train cars and thinks it odd how some robbers would break open the cars and packaging and other would be very particular at how they got the car open.

Being a railroad detective could also be scary because he had to go all "hinds of places, sometimes alone."

"But I could arrest anybody in New Orleans that broke the law and made $10 more a month than the city policeman," Vairin said.

Vairin gave up his career with the railroad because he wanted to travel all over the United States, but not long after he quit the Great Depression hit and Vairin stayed in Hancock County to help his family.

Vairin never married but recalls the great love of his life as Lucy McFarland, formerly of Hancock County.

CSX proposes 45 m.p.h.

Waveland delays formal acceptance of railroad speed

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Board of Aldermen is waiting for a meeting of attorneys involved in fighting a proposed railroad speed limit increase before formally agreeing to a compromise offered by the railroad itself.

According to Board Attorney Lucien Gex, Chesapeake-Seaboard Rail Transportation, also known as CSX, has offered a compromise measure that would set train speeds through Gulf Coast municipalities at 45 m.p.h.

The railroad is presently operating at 45 m.p.h. under a 90-day court granted by Federal Judge Walter Gex III in June.

Accepting the compromise would also allow Waveland and other Gulf Coast municipalities participating in an interlocal agreement to avoid fighting out the speed limit question in federal court, Lucien Gex said.

Waveland is one of the defendants in a federal lawsuit filed May 8 by CSX, which according to the suit operates more than 70 freight trains per week on tracks between New Orleans, La., and Mobile, Ala.

CSX Attorney Raymond Brown had asked the board in May to repeal a local ordinance limiting speeds to 35 m.p.h. inside the city's corporate limits.

The railroad has a self-imposed speed limit of 45 m.p.h. on drawbridges, but contended in the lawsuit that federal laws supersede local ordinances.

Currently, trains can go 50 m.p.h. to 60 m.p.h. in areas without ordinances or drawbridges, and the railroad is asking that that speed be allowed in municipalities as well.

Brown had told the board that the matter had been initiated when Jackson County set a five m.p.h. limit on 10 miles of track outside Pascagoula.

Medical zoning passes

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

After more than two years of debate and discussion, a doctor's office may be built on Drinkwater Road facing the new Hancock Medical Center.

The Bay St. Louis Council voted in favor of a Medical Office zoning on a piece of property owned by Dr. James Crittendon facing Drinkwater Lane.

Crittendon has been seeking zoning on this parcel of land since August 1985.

Following his initial request, the Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission got the Gulf Regional Planning Commission to do a study of the entire area around the new hospital.

GRPC's recommendation included establishment of a new zoning area to allow health-related facilities to be built adjacent to the new hospital and rezoning of all land facing Drinkwater Road.

However, although the commission recommended for approval the new zoning category and the zoning of surrounding property, the city council was unable to get a successful motion passed for the rezoning.

Area residents appeared repeatedly at various meetings of the city council and planning commission to make their objections known and also submitted petitions against the zoning change.

Because 20 percent or more of the property owners within 150 feet of the property petition for rezoning protested a 4-1 one vote by the council was necessary for the zoning to pass.

On the two parcels most recently submitted for rezoning, only one will be rezoned.

The motion for rezoning on this parcel which lies on Drinkwater Road between Scianna and Beningo lanes, passed with a 3-2 vote.

A 4-1 vote was not necessary for the motion to pass on this parcel because there were no signatures on the petition against the zoning by 20 percent or more of the landowners within 150 feet of the area in question.

The second parcel which is on the corner of Drinkwater and Paradise Lane received a 3-2 vote but required a 4-1 vote to pass.

Voting in favor of the zoning were Councilmen James Thriffley, Wilmer Seymour and Charles Johnson. Councilmen Lisa Cowand and John Wilkerson voted nay.

Three men charged in Pass truck theft

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Law enforcement officials continue to seek information about owners of a 1981 red Chevrolet Love pickup which may have been stolen.

The investigation of the pickup began last week after subjects who were riding in the pickup, were allegedly involved in the theft of another pickup in Pass Christian.

Earl J. McCarthur of Pass Christian was visiting friends when he saw someone driving away in his 1973 Ford pickup, according to Pass Christian Investigative Sgt. Tom Pustay.

McCarthur also noticed the Chevrolet pickup parked near his truck. He then reported his pickup as stolen and also reported noticing the Chevrolet pickup.

Information about the stolen Ford pickup was reported to the Bay St. Louis Police Department and Officer Shane Corr spotted the truck as it came across the Bay of St. Louis Bridge.

Corr began pursuit and in an apparent attempt to flee the police, the driver of the truck turned off US-90 but was finally stopped on Esplanade Avenue.

Driver of the Ford pickup, Michael J. Westmark, 38, (no address available), was arrested and charged with grand larceny.

Michael C. Wingo, 36, and Leon

Huddleston, 32, were later arrested at the intersection of US-90 and Highway 603.

Wingo was the driver and Huddleston was a passenger in the Chevrolet pickup.

The Chevrolet pickup was spotted in the parking lot at McDonalds Restaurant in Waveland by Bay Detective Chuck James.

Law enforcement officers watched the vehicle until Wingo and Huddleston left the restaurant and entered the truck.

Wingo and Huddleston were stopped at US-90 and Highway 603. They have been charged with grand larceny in connection with the theft of the Ford pickup.

Pustay's investigation of owners of the Chevrolet pickup began when law enforcement officers noted damage to the vehicle which "indicates it may have been stolen."

He said Wingo had a handwritten bill of sale but the document was not notarized and the last registered owner is being sought to see if the vehicle was in fact sold to Wingo.

Pustay said the vehicle is not currently listed on the National Crime Information Computer as stolen.

Wingo, Huddleston and Westmark are all being held in the Harrison County Jail under a $2,000 bond each.

Man jailed on substance charge

BY DENA BISNETTE

Hancock County Sheriff's Department deputies have arrested an Oklahoma man on several charges, including possession of a controlled substance.

Investigator Glen Strong said Paul Dean McAllister, 29, of Oklahoma City, Okla., was arrested by Deputies Albert Biehl and Barry Hoda at about 11:30 p.m. Sunday in the Diamondhead area near Interstate 10.

McAllister was charged with possession of a controlled substance that Strong identified only as "pills," possession of a concealed weapon, DUI and driving on a suspended drivers license. The investigator said McAllister was being held in the Hancock County Jail Monday on $2,800 bond.

The investigation is continuing with Strong in charge.

Speed

Gulfport, Biloxi, Ocean Springs, and Jackson County are also defendants in the pending litigation.

Pascagoula was one of the original defendants as well, but Pascagoula and Gautier have dropped out of the interlocal agreement formed to fight the proposed speed hike.

Other municipalities, including Bay St. Louis and Hancock County, have no speed limit ordinances but are participating in the interlocal agreement because their officials are concerned about problems such as train-passenger vehicle collisions, derailments and hazardous chemical spills.

Lucien Gex said a steering committee of attorneys who are cooperating under the terms of the interlocal agreement had been set for Jan. 14, which leaves the board time to make a formal decision at its Jan. 20 meeting on whether to accept the compromise proposal.

Gex said he recommends the compromise, which carries a deadline of Jan. 31. If it is not accepted by that time, the court will provide a decision on a summary judgement motion filed by the railroad.

That would mean "no speed limit at all," the attorney explained.

"Our chances of prevailing in federal court are very, very slim under present law. Between no speed limit and 45 m.p.h., half a loaf is better than none," he added.

In other business Tuesday, the aldermen:

to two of the employees they reappointed Monday, County Road Maintenance Superintendent Bill Johnson and County Engineer Larry Seal.

Seal was assigned to do a study identifying the dirt roads, their structures and their maintenance needs so the board may use the results to determine whether paving all of them will reduce maintenance costs in the long run.

He was also asked to begin designing a new section of Beach Road in accordance with plans of the sand beach council, which has already completed a master plan for shore protection and recreational development.

Seal was also told to coordinate with Johnson on providing paved parking lots for two county facilities, the central maintenance barn in Kiln and the fairgrounds, which are undergoing renovation.

Johnson's orders included accepting all county vehicles for maintenance at the county barn, whether that maintenance is scheduled or unscheduled.

In addition, Johnson has been asked to compile an inventory of all county equipment that is surplus or can no longer be used and can be sold at auction.

He will also prepare an inventory of all seawall-related equipment, which is currently being kept at the former Beat Four barn, which was designated as base of operations for the seawall crew after the county converted to the unit system.

Cuevas stated that the new board members had already begun preparing for the work on the beach by meeting informally with technical advisory council members.

Although the board had made no start toward the proposed county government building, bids were taken for heating for the welfare department, housed in an old creamery building on Necaise Avenue.

Several recent Grand Jury reports for the county have included recommendations that new quarters be found for the welfare department, with indications that the condition of the current building is too poor for continued use.

It was so good to see so many concerned electors on Monday for the swearing-in ceremonies by Circuit Judge James Thomas of Hancock County's officials.

Well wishers were down the front and back stairs of the Hancock County Courtroom.

We felt it was the most people in Hancock County ever to witness such an event, and even the real oldtimers told us the same.

True, there were many new officials, yet there were quiet a few repeaters who were re-elected to their positions.

Our elected officials have a very hard task to face the next four years, yet their job can be a lot easier with the cooperation of all citizens.

The qualified electors of the county elected our officials so let all of us give them a hand.

We wish each and every Hancock County elected official well in the years ahead.

January has been designated as Crime Stoppers month on a nationwide basis.

In Hancock County our new Board of Supervisors on their first day of business has also designated January officially as Crime Stoppers Month.

The Mississippi Gulf Coast Crime Stoppers got their start in June 1986.

The organization has been very busy and has helped law enforcement agencies in solving many crimes.

The local agency has already handed out 18 rewards on tips received which have solved crimes, not to mention many folks who would not accept an award.

Many of the crimes which were solved did not have any clues until Crime Stoppers became involved.

The costal organization operates on funds received from governmental bodies in addition to corporate and business gifts.

In addition all of the Chamber of Commerces along the Coast support Crime Stoppers.

As a matter of fact, Hilda Bourg of Diamondhead serves as chairman of the tri-county group.

Gloria Tartavouille of the Hancock County sheriff's office and Chuck James of the Bay St. Louis police department serve as police coordinators of the organization.

Crime Stoppers can be reached toll-free at 1-800-433-TIPS.

Mabus promotes the state
Governor-elect Ray Mabus is wasting no time in getting the word out that Mississippi is on the move. Mabus, who takes office on Jan. 12 met with members of the national media last week on a three-day tour to promote Mississippi and his plans for progress during the next four years.

The governor-elect met with New York Times representatives on Monday, Washington Post and Newsweek representatives on Tuesday, and Wall Street Journal, Cable News Network, Atlanta Constitution, and Atlanta Journal representatives on Wednesday.

Mabus has been getting requests for interviews from the national media since his election in November. The tour last week was a chance for him to sit down with some of the major players in the national media and tell them how Mississippi is changing.

For many years the national media has jumped on all the negative news coming from the state and downplayed or ignored anything good. Mabus can use this forum to set the record straight on the good that is happening here.

And if Mabus continues to pursue his new job as aggressively as he has in these weeks prior to his inauguration, the national media may stay interested in Mississippi.

The nation soon should be hearing a different story on Mississippi.

Quit smoking.

Traffic deaths increase during New Year's

JACKSON—During the 102-hour New Year's observance that ended Sunday 10 people died in Mississippi in eight automobile crashes. Seven deaths resulted from five crashes during the same period last year.

James L. Roberts Jr., commissioner of public safety, reports, however, that the total number of traffic fatalities in Mississippi dropped in 1987 compared to 1986.

A preliminary statistical summary shows that 745 people lost their lives in traffic accidents in 1987 compared to 766 deaths in 1986.

Deaths occurring from injuries sustained in accidents that took place in 1987 will be included in the year's total until Jan. 15.

"Higher public awareness of speed zones and speed limits and an increased speed enforcement effort by the Highway Patrol using non-radar detectable speed monitoring devices and aircraft are the primary reasons for the reduced number of traffic deaths," Roberts said.

"Also, in my opinion, the attention given by the news media to our speed enforcement strategies played a significant role in decreasing the speeds driven by motorists on Mississippi highways and thus aided in the decrease of fatalities in 1987."

According to a report by the Mississippi State Highway Department, the percent of vehicles exceeding 55 miles per hour decreased by 24 percent during the fourth quarter of 1987 (August-October).

"A substantial increase in the manpower of the Highway Patrol during 1987, resulting in higher visibility of troopers on the highways, was also a contributing factor in the decrease," Roberts said.

Seventy-one new state troopers graduated from the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol training program at the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy in August of this year and 47 more were commissioned in December.

"Of the 118 officers commissioned in 1987, 105 are assigned to the enforcement division," Roberts said.

"We want to work together with Mississippi's motorists during 1988 to achieve an even lower highway death count in this state," the commissioner said.

Highway death statistics from the patrol during the 10-year period between 1978 and 1987 show:

YEAR	DEATH
1978	784
1979	716
1980	697
1981	745
1982	728
1983	716
1984	680
1985	661
1986	766
1987	745

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—In one form or another, it appears certain that legislation requiring counties to operate under a county unit system is going to pass at the 1988 session of the Legislature.

Even the Mississippi Association of Supervisors seems reconciled to the inevitable, and their strategy will be to soften the blow as much as possible.

Newly installed State Auditor Pete Johnson has taken the initiative to come up with a consensus legislative package restructuring county government as a unit operation rather than the historic "beat" system.

Several weeks ago, Johnson put together an advisory group which included representatives from two strongly opposing sides—the Mississippi Economic Council, and the supervisors association—to draft a position paper for him as the basis of his legislative proposals.

While the MEC and MAS representatives participated in drawing up the proposal, neither could give endorsement of the plan until it has been approved by their boards of directors.

Essentially, Johnson's proposal would change the traditional boards of supervisors to county "boards of commissioners" and make the commissioners policy-making rather than administrative county officials.

All functions of the county government, including purchasing, personnel, road management and maintenance and other operations would be conducted on the county as a unit, without regard to district lines. Commissioners would not be involved in the hiring or firing of employees, and would not be involved in the day-to-day implementation of policy.

Each county would have an administrator as the chief executive officer for implementation of policy. But to accommodate smaller counties which could not afford to hire an administrator, the chancery clerk could be made the administrator.

As a "sweetener" to the counties to accept the package, the Johnson proposal calls for granting counties "home rule," which would free them from many legal restrictions imposed by state laws. For the past two or three years, counties had sought unsuccessfully to get the "home rule" law passed.

The county unit concept, Johnson said, "is a train that is on the track and we may as well push it along, and do something that is as good for Issaquena County (the smallest county in the state) as it is for the larger counties."

His primary goal, the newly installed state auditor declared, "is to get uniformity, a standardized system, under which all counties will operate. This is the only way we can have proper accounting, and reduce the cost to counties of auditing."

The key point of disagreement of the supervisors association with the Johnson proposal is whether the unit system will be mandated by the legislature for all counties, or individual counties will be allowed to hold a referendum on the question.

"We believe there should be a referendum," said Eddie Washington, executive director of MAS, "and we want people to know exactly what they are voting for."

Washington said there would be resistance in the ranks of the supervisors to "being put into three-piece suits and sent down to the policy-makers, and being taken away from the roads and the people."

But Washington admitted there is some disagreement in his own ranks over county government reform.

"We all know there's going to be change, but what we are talking about is a system that is going to be in effect long after Operation Pretense is over."

The supervisors' spokesman said he was pleased with the approach Johnson had taken in seeking the views of his organization before he made his recommendations. Washington said inclusion of "home rule" in the package was also helpful "because it would give us some flexibility."

Washington insisted that "whatever legislation is passed, I don't think that any system will work unless you have some local government people involved."

There were reports meantime that Gov.-elect Ray Mabus is having his own bills on county unit drafted that will take a tougher line than the package prepared by Johnson.

News from the Capitol City

Mississippi Reporting Service

BY ELLEN ANN FENTRESS

It is no exaggeration to say that 1988 at the Mississippi Capitol marks the beginning of a new era, as images of change bombard the Capitol hallways.

The most obvious change in the scenery will be in the governor's office, where Gov.-elect Ray Mabus steps in on the morning of Jan. 12 after winning the office on an anti-status quo bandwagon.

The next few months will prove whether Mabus can make good on his promises of 1987, including giving teachers $165 million in raises without raising state taxes.

Mabus would not commit during the campaign on exactly where the money could be produced from the current state budget. Instead, he called for the Legislature to make the higher investment in teachers a priority and then hand out the leftovers to spending lower on the priority list.

Down the Capitol hallway, an even bigger symbolic change is in the making. Retired House Speaker Buddie Newman, to some the epitome of conservative Delta political control, will be replaced by 36-year-old Rep. Tim Ford of Tupelo.

Ford won out in a two-way tussle for the speakership in the last half of 1987, defeating House Appropriations Committee Chairman Ed Perry of Oxford.

Ford was anointed in the summer by a faction of House members as their entry in the speaker's race. The group successfully weakened Newman's control last January by amending the House rules.

Meanwhile, the Senate as well as the House will wait for the first major development of the session: the appointment of committees and their chairmen. That task is handled by Lt. Gov. Brad Dye in the Senate.

And finally and most importantly, we have fostered a spirit of cooperation and coordination with other economic development groups around the State.

It is a great privilege to me to have served Mississippi these past three years. I thank Governor Allain and members of the Mississippi Board of Economic Development who appointed me. I also appreciate the assistance and support I received from members of the Legislature, economic development groups, the Chambers of Commerce, many personal friends and above all a very dedicated and talented staff.

I extend my best wishes to Governor Allain, the Mississippi Board of Economic Development, Governor-Elect Ray Mabus, and all those who continue to improve the quality of life for every citizen of this great State. To this effort, I pledge my support.

NOMA acquires 'Van Go'

Beginning Jan. 15, art takes to the highway as the New Orleans Museum of Art unveils its newest wing, the Museum-On-Wheels, sponsored by Latter & Blum and WWL-TV.

Affectionately known as "Van Go," the artmobile will eventually service all of Louisiana and the Mississippi Gulf-Coast.

An artwork in itself, the Museum-On-Wheels will be loaded with objects designed to whet people's appetites for the broader museum experience awaiting them at NOMA.

The traveling exhibitions will feature Japanese, Pre-Columbian, and African art, and in the future, presentations on the process of creating fine art and the decorative arts.

Mary Jane Parker, developer of the project for NOMA, chose these areas initially because objects in these cultures are easily transported, and may be held, worn, played, or danced with. Allowing children to participate in this way helps them to understand the true intent of these artifacts.

Made available to groups who for various reasons can't come to the Museum, Van Go is designed to go to them, and will make stops at area schools, hospitals and group homes.

It will allow people to view and handle artifacts and artwork from other cultures. Trained Museum Van Guides will accompany Van Go to talk about the objects and encourage people to come to NOMA and experience "the big picture" of the Museum itself.

Latter & Blum's involvement in the project was a major factor in getting things rolling. Robert Merrick, owner of Latter & Blum, Inc./Realtors sums up the corporate interest in the project: "Cultural health is tied to economic health."

Van Go is the only way for a very large segment of the community to understand what the Museum, and the arts, are all about. It's low-key, non-intimidating, and a fun way to learn."

Latter & Blum co-owner Kathy Merrick says, "If it encourages one person to go to the Museum and see what it offers, then it's done what we set out to accomplish. To reach out to the community in such a creative and educational way is fantastic."

WWL-TV takes the same position. Father Jack Dennis, WWL's Community Relations Director says, "The Museum on Wheels is an extension of the learning experience that can only serve to improve the community by expanding our children's knowledge. That's something WWL wants to be a part of."

The Museum on Wheels will hit the road Jan. 15 and inquiries for a visit by Van Go to groups or schools can be made by calling 488-2631, ext. 36.

Tree Planting Week set in February

Mississippi's 13th annual statewide Tree Planting Week has been set for Feb. 12-18, according to C. T. Favre, chairman of the Hancock County Soil and Water Conservation District.

The annual tree planting event has been observed since 1975. In 1987, all 82 counties participated in Tree Planting Week.

In 1988, Abraham Lincoln's birthday falls on Feb. 12, which is Arbor Day.

People in Hancock County will join other Mississippians in acknowledging the many contributions trees make to their daily lives. Benefits from Mississippi's forest and wood products are essential to the economic, recreational, and environmental needs of all.

During 1987, more than 50,000 Mississippi school children at 490 schools took part in Tree Planting Week activities. More than six million trees were planted throughout the state during the observance.

Individuals wishing to obtain trees during Tree Planting Week should

Roosa announces for Fifth District congressional seat

Christopher Roosa this week formally announced his candidacy for Mississippi's Fifth District congressional seat.

Roosa said, "Congressman Trent Lott has set the foundation for the future of South Mississippi. I want to build on that foundation and lead the Fifth District into the 1990's."

Roosa, vice president of his family's Coors beer distributorship on the Coast, further stated, "One of my first priorities, when elected, will be to work with the Congress to bring the federal deficit under control."

"It's time that Congress learns to live within a budget as all our families do."

In the area of education, Roosa, who is 28 and single, said, "We must get back to the four R's. Reading, Writing, Rhythmic and the fourth R, Respect. As community leaders and parents, we must take action today to make clear to all the world that we will not accept, encourage or tolerate an educational system that makes our young people less competitive in the world marketplace; and that we will prepare our children in South Mississippi with the academic skills to compete in an ever-shrinking world economy.

"Our children's minds should be clear to learn. We must strive for drug free schools."

"Today, I am asking you to join with me in my campaign. With your help, I truly believe we can make a difference," the candidate said.

He was a Dean's List student at Ole Miss and holds a BBA degree from University of Texas in Austin.

Roosa is a captain in the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve and an honor graduate of the Naval Justice School.

St. Ann Church News

A thought for meditation from our pastor Father Lambert Stack, ST. The trouble with a lot of people who resort to prayer is that they use it only as a last resort.

"This is what the Lord asks of you: Only this, to act justly, to love tenderly, and to walk humbly with your God."

—Micah 6:8

After all the holiday feasting, thoughts and budgets are turned to more mundane fare such as hash and stews and hearty soups and rice-and-leftovers or pasta-or-potato-and-leftovers combinations aren't they?

Some tasty ways to use up the remains of the holiday turkey or roast or ham are in a hearty and filling soup or gumbo, or a hash or casserole or as a robust sauce for rice or pasta.

Our family gathering in Mandeville turned into a personal Vigil of Christmas, as we waited out the arrival of No. 1 grandson Bill (II) McGuire and brother, No. 2 grandson, Brian McGuire, from Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, for Christmas vacation.

The boys were delayed en route because of car trouble, but reached home just in time for a midnight feast of the Christmas turkey and trimmings, which Bill I and Roi had been attending all through the day. We had gathered Christmas Eve over at Jack and Sue's home with the younger grandsons Shannon, Barrett, David and Holland McGuire, anxiously awaiting the arrival of their older cousins—as well as Christmas and all the presents!

Their Mom and Dad made a "deal" with the boys—in return for being allowed to open one present each on Christmas Eve, the boys would agree not to leave their "bachelor quarters" before 6:30 a.m. (File that happy thought and idea away for next Christmas, you parents of youngsters—and you'll get at least a little more sleep.)

When the older boys finally arrived, and told their tale of the highways, we rejoiced that the true spirit of Christmas is alive and well in the land. At least some places!

The boys had trouble with the alternator on Brian's Toyota just outside of the little town of Lexington, S.C., and, unable to drive on in the night, had hiked into town to find the only hotel closed—but, luckily, with a phone number card taped on the door. The hotel proprietor, a kind lady, opened up for them and located a mechanic who agreed to take them to the car early Christmas morning and see what could be done.

Fortunately, he located an alternator on a wrecked car in his shop yard, and the boys were back on the road again. Meanwhile, as Brian said, "All downtown Lexington knew of our plight and was trying to find ways to help us. It renews your faith in the kindness of people."

So, all was well with our clan. When I was leaving for home, son Bill insisted that I take a smoked turkey with me, and the boys chimed in, "Please, Gran, we're turkeyed out!" So, my holiday feasting went on even after I arrived home on the Coast!

The turkey is delicious, and was inspiration for an impromptu gathering of friends, as well as a holiday from cooking for me, and a delight to Peanuts-the-Cat, who always clamors for his share of whatever I am cooking or eating. And, after setting aside mounds of sliced turkey and turkey chunks, etc., etc. for other meals, today I'm busy cooking:

TURKEY JAMBALAYA
(If you haven't smoked turkey leftovers on hand, don't worry—you may use roast turkey leftovers, or chicken leftovers; just add smoked sausage for that wonderful, woody smokey taste, as I do when I'm not so fortunate as to have smoked turkey! I've added smoked sausage to this, as well.)
2 cups cubed cooked turkey
½ lb. or a bit more, smoked sausage links, sliced
2 Tbsp. oil
1 cup chopped green pepper
1 cup chopped onion
2 cloves garlic, minced (optional)
Pepper, salt to taste
1 tsp. Worcestershire
3 cups water (or turkey broth)
1½ cups uncooked rice
¼ lb. fresh mushrooms (or small can)

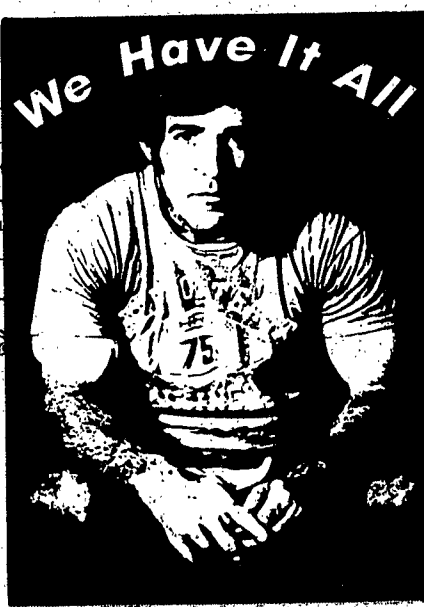

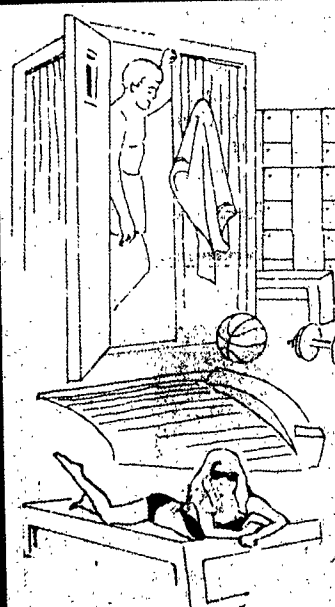

Saute the green pepper, onion and garlic in the oil till tender, then stir in the seasonings and water or broth and simmer for 10 minutes. Mix in the rice, turkey and sausage, and cook, covered, over low heat for almost a half hour, or until the rice is done. Add water or broth, if needed.

Meanwhile, if you're using fresh mushrooms, saute in a little butter or broth (or, do as I do, and saute along with the vegetables. If using canned mushrooms, add at this time). Cook for just five minutes longer. (Six servings).

P.S. Tomorrow, I'll make a Turkey Gumbo!

Other amendments will include revisions in standards for RN reorientation programs, standards for LPN reorientation programs, and rules and regulations and standards for IV therapy, expanded role of the LPN.

The hearing will be held at 10 a.m. on Jan. 20, 1988, in the 7th floor Conference Room at the Mississippi Research and Development Center, 3825 Ridgewood Road, in Jackson.

USM adds assistants

HATTIESBURG— University of Southern Mississippi football coach Curley Hallman has added three more assistants to his growing staff, and says he hopes to have the staff completed by the time the NCAA Convention is over in early January.

The three new assistants include Larry Edmondson, who will work with the wide receivers, Rodney Allison who will coach the running backs and Mark McHale who will remain from last year's staff and will continue to coach the offensive line. He recently completed his second season at USM.

Hallman earlier had announced the hiring of former USM standout Jeff Bower as offensive coordinator and quarterback coach, and that he would retain Thomas Coleman from last year's staff in a still undecided capacity. Coleman recently completed his 10th season at USM and last season served as assistant head coach/administrative.

Bower returns to USM from the Wake Forest staff. He played at USM from 1973 through 1975, served as a graduate assistant coach in 1976 and 1977, joined the staff as a fulltime assistant the following year and remained there through the 1981 season. He started 33 straight games during his USM playing career, and led his team to a 20-12-1 record during that time.

Edmondson moves to USM from Arizona where he was a graduate assistant last season. He played tight end at and graduated from Texas A&M prior to taking the Arizona post.

Allison was an outstanding quarterback at Texas Tech, coached for five seasons there under head coach Steve Sloan and also worked with Sloan at Duke. He was out of coaching last season.

worldwide sports program of training and competition for children and adults with mental retardation.

Special Olympics marks its twentieth year in 1988 and its goal is to double the number of participants. More than one million people currently compete in one of Special Olympics 20,000 programs which reach 97 Percent of all U.S. counties and more than 70 countries worldwide. Special Olympics is run almost solely by volunteers. More than 600,000 people worldwide volunteer in giving the mentally retarded an opportunity to grow both physically and emotionally.

"Special Olympics is getting better all the time," said Sargent Shriver, president of Special Olympics. "Working with companies as large as K mart and Procter and Gamble should help us fulfill our outreach goals more quickly," he added.

K mart is proud to be involved with Special Olympics and hopes to raise more than the $90,000 donated last year as a result of K mart's support.

"A project like this benefits not only K mart, Procter and Gamble and Special Olympics but the entire community as well," Joseph Antonini, president, chairman and chief executive officer of K mart said. "K mart is excited to be a part of such a worthwhile program," Antonini added.

Duckhunters must use steel shot in shells

Mississippians who are duck hunting this winter must use steel pellets rather than lead ones in their shotgun shells, according to a new state regulation.

Mississippi is one of six states who have this regulation, and by the early 1990's duck hunting with lead pellets will be illegal in all 50 states.

Lead pellets have been prohibited in Mississippi because of the toxic effects they have on ducks and other waterfowl. The birds eat the lead pellets and are poisoned by the lead salts released in their bloodstreams during digestion.

"When lead shot was used, it was strewn all over the wetland areas by hunters shooting at the ducks," said Dr. Richard Kaminski, associate professor of wildlife at Mississippi State University. "When the ducks would feed off the wetlands, many would accidentally eat the pellets or they would mistake the pellets for seed and intentionally eat them."

The ducks are not poisoned by lead pellets entering the body during shooting because the pellets are encased and absorption can't occur. "Many people thought the ducks were dying because they were crippled by the lead going into the body," Kaminski said. "When they swallow the lead, absorption into the bloodstream is easy."

Although steel shot is more expensive than lead, it does not poison the ducks if they swallow it.

Seventy-one boaters met Saturday, Dec. 19 at the Ships Store for a covered dish lunch prior to finishing their decorating and going down the Jordan River for the Parade of Lights.

Eight boats participated—The Passport, captained by Bill Malcolm, Easy Living by Fred Simonson, Motivation by Bill Boyle, Lazy Bones by Harrie Devine, Encounter by Dick Alves, D'Ville by Mike Daugherty, Class of 43 by Bob Calvey, and last but not least, Kay Bee by Kent Boyle, carrying Santa Claus and Mrs. Santa Claus.

Kindergarten conquers

the Elissa!

Ahoy, Mates. The kindergarten from Waveland had a wonderful time visiting the Elissa.

The students had an exciting adventure exploring all the parts of the ship.

The trip really brought to life the travel of the early settlers.

Tall ship provides glimpses of history

The first grade class of Mrs. Smith at Waveland Elementary, while studying the meaning of Thanksgiving, adventured to Biloxi to tour the tall ship Elissa. The ship evokes memories from long ago of how it carried cargo across the seas.

The students were amused by the way the crew cooked on a wood stove and provided for food on long trips without refrigeration.

Strong men were needed to man the giant sails to propel the ship.

Students were allowed to go into the captain's quarters, crew quarters, galley and the cargo hold.

They wondered about the people and mysteries of long ago. They felt the wind and imagined how much fun it would be to go sailing on the tall ship.

Everyone had a fascinating, enjoyable, and educational 'voyage' on Elissa.

Among those looking at the many large ropes and tackles that control the sails are Mrs. Jackie Noto, Mrs.

Carolyn Lea, Catrina Stiglet, Heather Fricke, Terry Fuller and Brad Carver.

Elissa helps students recall first Thanksgiving

The first grade class of Mrs. Holyfield at Waveland Elementary had been studying about the first Thanksgiving of long ago when a magnificent opportunity came our way on Nov. 13.

We traveled by bus to Biloxi to see the spectacular sailing ship, the Elissa.

This ship gave us an idea of what the Mayflower must have looked and felt like so many years ago.

We were able to go from stern to stern and even went down into the "hold" of the ship where someone explained to us about how the ship's cargo was stored and managed.

We had a fantastic voyage in our mind's eye from this exciting adventure.

Old president's home to house PRC alumni

The current home of Pearl River College President Ted J. Alexander, which was constructed in the mid-twenties, will be used for college functions after Dr. Alexander occupies a new home on campus.

In November the college board of trustees awarded a $248,239 low bid to Maples Construction Co. of Hattiesburg to construct a new president's home.

Construction began on the project a couple of weeks ago and the bid calls for the completion of the house within six months. The new building is located just north of the M.R. White Coliseum.

The current home, the oldest in the state used as a president's home and located adjacent to the PRC cafeteria, will house Alumni Affairs, Development Foundation, Research Administration, Grants, Proposals functions, as well as serving as a records storage area.

The last shall be first at Pearl River registration

POPLARVILLE—People with their last name beginning with W, X, Y, Z have a very good chance of being seated last, called last and registered last.

That's not the case for sophomore students wanting to sign up for the spring semester at Pearl River Community College.

The Williams, Yarbroughs, Zars, Zolls, Xaviers and all others toward the end of the alphabet will be the first to register at 8:30 a.m., Monday, Jan. 11.

In fact, all sophomores will be permitted to register according to a last name schedule that morning. The freshman, transfer and former students will get their chance at 1 p.m. That is, if their names are also in the W, X, Y, Z file.

Freshman students will continue to register through Tuesday according to a published schedule. The A and B students, not by grade but by name, will have to fight the scheduling last on Tuesday afternoon.

Late registration and regular classes will begin Wednesday, Jan. 13. Students may change schedules through Tuesday, Jan. 19.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought To You
 By Jim Henrie

Ever wonder who "invented" the post-season football bowl games? A Pasadena, Calif., businessman, James Wagner, is credited with the original idea. To promote Pasadena's Tournament of Roses affair in 1902, he got the thought of staging a post-season football game. And so, all of today's bowl games stem from Wagner's idea.

Did you know that many of today's post-season bowl games were known by different names in their early years? For instance in the first two years of the Orange Bowl, it wasn't called the Orange Bowl at all. It was known as the "Festival of Palms Game." The Gator Bowl started as the "Alligator Bowl." And the forerunner of the Cotton Bowl was called the "Dixie Classic."

What was the strangest thing that ever happened in a big-time football game? Many experts vote for an incident that happened in the 1954 Cotton Bowl game. You might remember this one. Dick Moegle of Rice was running down the field for a touchdown. But a substitute on the Alabama bench jumped off the bench, ran on to the field and tackled Moegle as he went by! Officials gave Moegle a touchdown, crediting him with a 95 yard run even though he ran only 53.
